HOST THIS CLASS

This course has been specifically developed for front-line officers to effectively fulfill their primary mission of saving lives.

It stands out as one of the few training programs that seamlessly integrate evidence-based principles from the classroom with practical skill-based tactics.

The culmination of the course involves immersive, reality-based scenarios that emphasize de-escalation tactics firmly grounded in the understanding of human behavior.

Additional topics covered include constitutional use of force, de-escalation tactics, and coordination with additional plainclothes officers.

In this Train the Trainer course, students will showcase proficiency in mission-driven tactics and acquire the skills to conduct active threat response training for their respective agencies.

Goals

- Understand principles when responding to active threats.
- Understand and consider the priority of life during active threat response.
- Understand constitutional use of deadly force requirements and appropriate de-escalation methods.
- Understand two mission-driven tactics for active threat response.
- Demonstrate proficiency in the two mission-driven tactics.
- Implement principles learned in a teach-back scenario
