Description

The OTOA SWAT Commander Course is a four-day advanced leadership program for current and future tactical commanders and agency leaders responsible for SWAT operations. The course focuses on the commander's responsibility to build, lead, support, and evaluate a professional tactical program—before, during, and after critical incidents.

Participants examine Commander's Intent, mission planning and review, command and control, risk management, policy, training, personnel, liability, interoperability, and organizational readiness through facilitated discussion, case studies, and practical exercises.

The course emphasizes the relationship between the Commander and Team Leader, developing leaders who can establish clear intent, evaluate tactical plans, ask the right questions, allocate appropriate resources, and provide effective oversight without unnecessarily directing tactical execution.
